CONDUCT

We want to keep this game a fun experience for everyone and reserve the right to refuse entry to or remove visitors who arrive inebriated, behave inappropriately with our staff, or are otherwise disruptive. The actors will not touch you, so please do not touch them. There will be no jump scares during the evening. The lead booker is responsible for their group's behaviour.

COSTUME

Costume is encouraged but not required. This event is set in Nottingham in 1933. All guests are part of the notorious criminal group "The Boon Gang". Ladies can choose from glamorous evening gowns or flowered day dresses. For the gents tailored suits or shirts with braces, and flat caps.

If you're looking for inspiration, we suggest Peaky Blinders, Upstairs Downstairs, and Poirot.

BODY FOUND DURING SLUM CLEARANCE.

VICTIM KNOWN TO THE POLICE.

A gruesome discovery was made the day before yesterday by workmen engaged in the clearance of the Narrow-Marsh slums. In the course of pulling down the warehouse next to the Loggerheads public house on Red Lion-Street there were revealed several of the caves which famously honey-comb the sandstone cliff.

During the subsequent investigation of these caves a body was discovered at the bottom of a deep rock-cut well shaft. The police were immediately summoned, and in due course the corpse was retrieved and examined by the police surgeon who announced that the fall into the well was not the cause of death. Rather, the deceased had been shot twice in the head and the body then tumbled into the well in an attempt to conceal the crime.

Later that afternoon it was announced that the unfortunate victim was Mr. George Hogg, late of Sneinton. Mr. Hogg was well known to the police for dealing in stolen goods and was under suspicion of being the mastermind behind a network of organised crime in the Sneinton area. What he may have been doing in Narrow-Marsh is a matter of some speculation, as the area is under the control of his arch-rival, Mr. Baldwin Boon, leader of the so-called "Boon Gang".

NOTORIOUS FELON ARRESTED IN "BODY IN THE WELL" CASE

Given the discovery of the body of Mr. George Hogg in a warehouse owned by his "business rival" Mr. Baldwin Boon, Nottingham's Chief Constable Mr. Popkis duly invited Mr. Boon to visit the police station on High Pavement this morning. At the same time, a search of Mr. Boon's pleasant suburban home in West Bridgeford yielded a revolver locked in a drawer along with bullets of the type found in Mr. Hogg's body.

Mr. Boon has consequently been arrested on suspicion of murder, but vigorously maintains his innocence. "If I had shot Hogg I shouldn't be fool enough to keep the gun," he stated. "He had it coming but it was not me who did so, and I shall prove it."

Chief Constable Popkis said that it was most satisfying for officers to finally be able to charge on such a slippery character who has long evaded the law.
